MRS. MARY LEWIS SOBS AS SHE RELATES INCIDENTS OF DEATH STATE COMPLETES CASE TODAY

Neighbor Woman, Mrs. Fletcher Graham, Tells of Watching Lights of Automobile Circling in Field Three Times; Expert Witnesses Called by State Including Drs. Bower, Mitchell and Watson; Trial Goes On All Day Saturday.

Sobbing, and at times on the verge of a breakdown, Mrs. Mary Lewis, widow of William Lewis, Darby-twp, for whose death Horace Van Horn of Darby-twp is on trial in common pleas court, told of the fight between her son, Walter, 31, and Van Horn after the latter had been accused of entering the Lewis home and ransacking Walter's possessions.

The crowded courtroom was quiet, not a sound marred the inter-rogation of Prosecuting Attorney E. L. Cist as he asked the bearded woman to tell her story. She told of going to Columbus on Saturday evening, Nov. 8, with her son and of returning. She said that Walter had started to look for his father early on Sunday morning, shortly after midnight, and that just as he started out the lane observed another automobile entering the Lewis drive.

CAR APPROACHED
She said she waited until the car approached and then walked to it, corroborating the testimony given earlier by Walter Lewis. She told of Van Horn getting out of his automobile which also contained her husband and of him threatening to kill the younger Lewis. She explained the fight that followed, of Walter knocking Van Horn down - she didn't count the times - of Walter trying to pull his father from the Van Horn car. She continued to tell of Walter trying to carry his father to the Lewis home and that just as he started the motor of his car and started to drive toward the pair.

DROVE OVER BODY
After her direct testimony to the prosecutor, Mrs. Lewis was turned over to the defense for cross-examination shortly before the noon recess.

Dr. John Mitchell of Columbus, testified for the state Friday morning stating the results of an autopsy held in Harrisburg after the death of Mr. Lewis from his injuries. He told of the different broken bones found. Dr. Frank Watson of Columbus, who also took part in the autopsy was to go on stand early Friday afternoon to testify on the same thing.

Dr. C. E. Bowers, county coroner, was put on the stand Thursday afternoon by the state and told his observations at the scene of the altercation and of the findings in the autopsy. He was returned to the stand Friday morning for a short time.

NEIGHBOR TALKS
Mrs. Fletcher Graham of Darby-twp, neighbor and friend to both the Van Horn and the Lewis families, testified on the happening in the rye field and the woods at the Lewis home on the fatal night. She said that, suffering from indigestion, she was unable to go to sleep on this particular Saturday night. She was sitting at her window when she saw a small car enter the Lewis lane-presumably Walter Lewis'. She said she sat a while longer and another car larger than the first entered the lane. She told of seeing four persons in the lights of the second car but the distance was so great that she could not tell whether they were men or women.

She said after a time one of the figures hurriedly entered the second automobile to enter the lane and she saw its lights when it circled three times. She said at that time only one person was to be seen standing near the gate leading into the Lewis woods. After circling three times Mrs. Graham said the car drove out of the lane and onto the highway where it disappeared.

Mrs. Graham then told of seeing two figures huddle near the ground.

OFFICERS CALLED
Three other witnesses called by the state in the Thursday afternoon testimony included ex-Sheriff Frank Davis and Deputy Miller Fissel and ex-Deputy John G. Ward. Ward was first called, then Davis, then Fissel. Each told of the report which was received at the office here and of the investigation and subsequent arrest of Mr. Van Horn.

The state was expected to complete its case late Friday afternoon or early Saturday morning, all depending upon the length of cross-examination. Court will be held all day, Saturday, according to a decree of Judge Clevenger. The court stated that although it is a variation from the usual order of things court will be held Saturday in order to hurry the case along. Judge Clevenger said that since the jury has been sequestered he doesn't want them to be forced to stay together longer than is necessary.

One more week is being estimated for the duration of the trial since the defense has a great number of witnesses subpoenaed.

OHIO CITIZENS FILE CHARGES

Fremont Council Charges Systematic "Robbing" By Ohio Fuel Gas Co.

FREMONT, O., March 6.—Containing the allegation that citizens of Fremont believed they were being "systematically robbed" by the Ohio Fuel Gas Co., a city council resolution, asking aid from the State Utilities Commission and an investigation by state authorities was sent today to Attorney General Gilbert Bettman at Columbus.

With public indignation aroused over the excessive rate which the gas company is claimed to be charging for the fuel, city council last night passed a resolution by a unanimous vote in the presence of scores of enraged citizens. The resolution was prompted by the statements of the councilmen and citizens that the gas bills for nearly every home in the city for February was nearly double the bill for January. All February bills were at least $10 more than for January, it was charged.

That citizens "feel there is some manipulation against them" was a statement in the resolution, which asked that a state probe be made of the situation.

The state was expected to complete its case late Friday afternoon or early Saturday morning, all depending upon the length of cross-examination. Court will be held all day, Saturday, according to a decree of Judge Clevenger. The court stated that although it is a variation from the usual order of things court will be held Saturday in order to hurry the case along. NEGRO SLAYER GIVEN "CHAIR"

Murderer of Crawford-Co Sheriff to Die for Shooting; Brother to Follow.

BUCCYRUS, O., March 6.—For the fourth time in less than six months a Crawford-co jury today had returned a verdict sending a man to the electric chair for murder.

Walter Ralls, Crestline negro, was convicted by a jury of first-degree murder without recommendation of mercy last night for the killing of Sheriff George Davenport in the performance of his duty.

The negro sat immobile as the verdict was read. He had nothing to say.

The jury returned its verdict after five hours of deliberation before a courtroom that was thronged with hundreds of persons. At the request of the defense a poll was taken. Each juror was asked: "Is that your verdict?" Each juror replied: "It is."

Judge C. U. Ahl deferred the pronouncement of sentence when former prosecutor Louis Kreiter, appointed by the court to defend Ralls, gave notice that he would file a motion for a new trial.

Should the motion be overruled, Kreiter indicated he would take the case to the court of appeals on the ground that an error was committed in denying a change of venue for the negro's trial.

The verdict against Ralls was the fourth of such kind to be returned in this county in less than six months. Prior to that, no jury in the county's century of history, had ever exacted the supreme penalty, although there had been many murders.

Five weeks ago three Mansfield youths, convicted by local justices of killing a Galion filling station attendant, died at a triple execution.

Walter Ralls will be the second to pay with his life for the murder of Sheriff Davenport. His brother, Elijah, was shot to death when he attempted to escape from the county jail. His nephew, Blanton Ralls, will go on trial for the same murder next Monday, and the state will demand the death penalty.

Sheriff Davenport was slain as he attempted to seize the Ralls in connection with chicken thefts recently.

PERJURY TRIAL NEAR AT HAND

Virgil Vincent Held For Grand Jury For False Testimony In Daugherty Case.

WASHINGTON, C. H. O., March 6.—Hearing on a plea in abatement filed by Virgil Vincent who is under indictment for perjury in connection with the Mal S. Daugherty bank fraud case, today was postponed pending disposal of a motion for a new trial for Daugherty.

Daugherty was convicted Wednesday on charges of misappropriating funds of the defunct Ohio State Bank, of which he was once president.

Motion for a new trial for Daugherty will probably be filed Saturday, his attorneys indicated today. Arguments on the motion, according to Judge Charles Bell of Cincinnati, will be held on March 16.

The perjury charge against Vincent was the outgrowth of his testimony before the Fayette-co jury in the investigation of the Ohio State Bank's operations that he had never signed a note at the bank when the proceeds of the note were to be turned over to Daugherty.

The indictment charges that this was a false statement made under oath.

Daugherty, meantime, appears confident that "everything will come out all right," in spite of his conviction by a jury last Wednesday. He has been in conference with his attorneys over the impending legal fight for a new trial since the jury's verdict.

Robinson Leading Fight Against Putting Wet Plank before Party

SOUTH SUPPORTING

Meeting Gives Year to Iron Out Differences

WASHINGTON, Mar. 6.—The prohibition issue, as it affects the Democratic party, was pushed squarely into the open today - there to remain until the national convention next year makes it choice of wet or dry for the presidential campaign of 1932.

The process of getting it into the open left some ruffled feelings and sore heads among those who participated in yesterday's tempestuous meeting of the national committee, but on all sides today and in all factions there was apparent a feeling of relief that at last the controversy has been dragged from the darkness of suppression and into the light of discussion.

HOME RULE PLAN

From now on, for the next 10 months, Chairman John J. Raskob's bold proposal that the party adopt a "home rule" plank on the liquor question in the 1932 platform promises to be the principal topic of conversation in Democratic circles. Its effect on the party and its chances for the presidency next year remains to be seen.

In 1928, the Democrats presented the anomaly of a dry platform and a wet candidate. In 1932, Chairman Raskob and Ex-Gov. Al Smith, are determined that no such paradox will be offered the voters. They are confident that next year both the platform and the candidates will oppose prohibition, which they envision as probably the outstanding issue of the campaign, with President Hoover championing the dry side.

Raskob's proposal, in brief, does not contemplate the repeal of the eighteenth amendment, which many regard as impracticable if not impossible anyway. He proposes, rather, to amend the amendment or to write a totally new one, which will make the original amendment inapplicable to those states which by referendum decide that they want to deal with the liquor problem in their own way.

SET UP RIGHTS

Thus, dry Kansas could continue dry, while federal assistance in preventing the interstate smuggling of liquor, while wet New York or New Jersey could set up within their own borders any form of liquor control they desired. Chairman Raskob described the proposal as "Home Rule."

The strategy in pushing the proposal forward at this time is that it will allow a year's discussion in advance of the 1932 convention. While the Democratic south may prove irreconcilable in the matter.

OPERATION OF CITY IS TOLD

Clerk of Council Explains Different Branches and Functions to Rotary Club.

How the City government and its different departments function was interestingly told to the Rotarians Thursday by Mr. R. Nicholas, clerk of council. Having served in this capacity for many years there is no one better qualified to tell of these things than Mr. Nicholas.

There are 59 persons who are directly connected with the City offices, Mr. Nicholas stated, some of these are elected and some are appointed by the Mayor. He gave the particulars of the duties of the several departments of the City governments, their heads and the things that come under these departments.

He gave information concerning the Berger hospital and how well this is operated under Safety Director Wallace Crist. He then told of the activities of City Council for the past year and the many duties that come under this branch. He also gave the receipts and expenses for the year 1930 and the salaries of the different department heads.

In closing Mr. Nicholas stated that the citizens should show more interest in their City Government and attend the Council meetings more often. At many meetings only the members of Council are present and about the only time the citizens and Tax Payers are seen is when some improvement is wanted. He urged the Rotarians to show more interest and attend these meetings for the present City Council have things before them now that is of interest to every resident of Circleville.

Carolyn Herrmann, five-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Karl Herrmann, entertained the members with two songs, "Sleepy Town Express" and "Gee. But I want to Make You Happy." Her singing was thoroughly enjoyed by the members. Judge Clevenger was a guest at the meeting Thursday.

STATE SOLONS PUT STAMP ON CHARITY BONDS

Pringle - Roberts Unemployment and Drought Relief Bill Passed

WILL ASSIST MANY
Taxation, Welfare Budget
Next Week, Report

COLUMBUS, O., March 6.—Dangling the Pringle-Roberts unemployment and drought relief bill with evident pride, Ohio's legislators went back to their constituencies today to buckle on their war harness for two battles - taxation and welfare - which are expected to be brought out into the open next week.

A few hours after it had definitely killed the last anti-prohibition measure, an act that stifled the last threatened wet legislative attached its stamp of approval to the Pringle-Roberts bill to allow "charity bonds."

This last step - taken by the senate a few minutes before adjournment yesterday afternoon - was regarded as so important in many localities that representatives and senators hurried home to deliver the news to city councils personally.

ISSUE OF BONDS

As approved in the senate, the Pringle-Roberts bill allows taxing subdivisions to issue bonds for poor relief up to one-twentieth of one per cent of their tax duplicate during the next year.

The bill will be sent back to the house next week for consideration of the one-year limit clause - that part having been attached in an amendment prepared by Sen. Robert A. Taft (R) of Cincinnati.

So great is said to be the need for "charity bonds" in some cities and political subdivisions that this house is expected to adopt the amendment at once and send the bill promptly to Governor White for his signature.

Enthusiastic approval of the Pringle-Roberts device for helping the poor was voiced in the senate before Clerk Thomas E. Bateman called the roll which brought a unanimous affirmative vote.

ISSUE OF MILLIONS

Senator L. L. Marshall (R) of Cleveland estimated that its passage will result in the immediate issuance of more than $6,000,000 in poor relief bonds.

"My city council is waiting for your vote on this bill so it can proceed with relief steps at a special meeting tonight," Senator John A. Lloyd (R) of Portsmouth told the senate. Other senators said their home towns and cities were equally in need.

Governor White promised Tuesday that his welfare improvement suggestions would be ready "in a few days." The senate hopes he will have it in shape for presentation next week.

Should the motion be overruled, Kreiter indicated he would take the case to the court of appeals on the ground that an error was committed in denying a change of venue for the negro's trial.

The verdict against Ralls was the fourth of such kind to be returned in this county in less than six months. Prior to that, no jury in the county's century of history, had ever exacted the supreme penalty, although there had been many murders.

Five weeks ago three Mansfield youths, convicted by local juries of killing a Galion filling station attendant, died at a triple execution.

Walter Ralls will be the second to pay with his life for the murder of Sheriff Davenport. His brother, Eljah, was shot to death when he attempted to escape from the county jail. His nephew, Bianton Ralls, will go on trial for the same murder next Monday, and the state will demand the death penalty.

Sheriff Davenport was slain as he attempted to seize the Ralls in connection with chicken thefts recently.

PERJURY TRIAL NEAR AT HAND

Virgil Vincent Held For Grand Jury For False Testimony In Daugherty Case.

WASHINGTON, C. H. O., March 6.—Hearing on a plea in abatement filed by Virgil Vincent who is under indictment for perjury in connection with the Mal S. Daugherty bank fraud case, today was postponed pending disposal of a motion for a new trial for Daugherty.

Daugherty was convicted Wednesday on charges of mishandling funds of the defunct Ohio State Bank, of which he was once president.

Motion for a new trial for Daugherty will probably be filed Saturday, his attorneys indicated today. Arguments on the motion, according to Judge Charles Bell of Cincinnati, will be held on March 16.

The perjury charge against Vincent was the outgrowth of his testimony before the Fayette-co jury in the investigation of the Ohio State Bank's operations that he had never signed a note at the bank when the proceeds of the note were to be turned over to Daugherty.

The indictment charges that this was a false statement made under oath.

Daugherty, meantime, appears confident that "everything will come out all right," in spite of his conviction by a jury last Wednesday. He has been in conference with his attorneys over the impending legal fight for a new trial since the jury's verdict.

Robinson Leading Fight Against Putting Wet Plank before Party

SOUTH SUPPORTING

Meeting Gives Year to Iron Out Differences

WASHINGTON, Mar. 6.—The prohibition issue, as it affects the Democratic party, was pushed squarely into the open today - - there to remain until the national convention next year makes it choice of wet or dry for the presidential campaign of 1932.

The process of getting it into the open left some ruffled feelings and sore heads among those who participated in yesterday's tempestuous meeting of the national committee, but on all sides today and in all factions there was apparent a feeling of relief that at last the controversy has been dragged from the darkness of suppression and into the light of discussion.

HOME RULE PLAN

From now on, for the next 16 months, Chairman John J. Raskob's bold proposal that the party adopt a "home rule" plank on the liquor question in the 1932 platform promises to be the principal topic of conversation in Democratic circles. Its effect on the party and its chances for the presidency next year remains to be seen.

In 1928, the Democrats presented the anomaly of a dry platform and a wet candidate. In 1932, Chairman Raskob and Ex-Gov. Al Smith, are determined that no such paradox will be offered the voters. They are confident that next year both the platform and the candidates will oppose prohibition, which they envision as probably the outstanding issue of the campaign, with President Hoover championing the dry side.

Raskob's proposal, in brief, does not contemplate the repeal of the eighteenth amendment, which many regard as impracticable if not impossible anyway. He proposes, rather, to amend the amendment or to write a totally new one, which will make the original amendment inapplicable to those states which by referendum decide that they want to deal with the liquor problem in their own way.

SET UP RIGHTS

Thus, dry Kansas could continue dry, while federal assistance in preventing the interstate smuggling of liquor, while wet New York or New Jersey could set up within their own borders any form of liquor control they desired. Chairman Raskob described the proposal as "Home Rule."

The strategy in pushing the proposal forward at this time is that it will allow a year's discussion in advance of the 1932 convention. While the Democratic south may prove irreconcilable in the matter, Continued on Page Eight.

OPERATION OF CITY IS TOLD

Clerk of Council Explains Different Branches and Functions to Rotary Club.

How the City government and its different departments function was interestingly told to the Rotarians Thursday by Fred R. Nicholas, clerk of council. Having served in this capacity for many years there is no one better qualified to tell of these things than Mr. Nicholas.

There are 59 persons who are directly connected with the City offices, Mr. Nicholas stated, some of these are elected and some are appointed by the Mayor. He gave the particulars of the duties of the several departments of the City governments, their heads and the things that come under these departments. He gave information concerning the Berger hospital and how well this is operated under Safety Director Wallace Crist. He then told of the activities of City Council for the past year and the many duties that come under this branch. He also gave the receipts and expenses for the year 1930 and the salaries of the different department heads.

In closing Mr. Nicholas stated that the citizens should show more interest in their City Government and attend the Council meetings more often. At many meetings only the members of Council are present and about the only time the citizens and Tax Payers are seen is when some improvement is wanted. He urged the Rotarians to show more interest and attend these meetings for the present City Council have things before them now that is of interest to every resident of Circleville.

Carolyn Herrmann, five-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Karl Herrmann, entertained the members with two songs, "Sleepy Town Express" and "Gee, But I want to Make You Happy." Her singing was thoroughly enjoyed by the members. Judge Clevenger was a guest at the meeting Thursday.

STATE SOLONS PUT STAMP ON CHARITY BONDS

Pringle-Roberts Unemployment and Drought Relief Bill Passed

WILL ASSIST MANY

Taxation, Welfare Begin Next Week, Report

COLUMBUS, O., March 6.—Dangling the Pringle-Roberts unemployment and drought relief bill with evident pride, Ohio's legislators went back to their constituencies today to buckle on their war harness for two battles - - taxation and welfare - - which are expected to be brought out into the open next week.

A few hours after it had definitely killed the last anti-prohibition measure, an act that stifled the last threatened wet legislation attached its stamp of approval to the Pringle-Roberts bill to allow "charity bonds."

This last step - - taken by the senate a few minutes before adjournment yesterday afternoon - - was regarded as so important in many localities that representatives and senators hurried home to deliver the news to city councils personally.

TO ISSUE BONDS

As approved in the senate, the Pringle-Roberts bill allows taxing subdivisions to issue bonds for poor relief up to one-twentieth of one per cent of their tax duplicate during the next year.

The bill will be sent back to the house next week for consideration of the one-year limit clause - - that part having been attached in an amendment prepared by Sen. Robert A. Taft (R) of Cincinnati.

So great is said to be the need for "charity bonds" in some cities and political subdivisions that the house is expected to adopt the amendment at once and send the bill promptly to Governor White for his signature.

Enthusiastic approval of the Pringle-Roberts device for helping the poor was voiced in the senate before Clerk Thomas E. Buteman called the roll which brought a unanimous affirmative vote.

ISSUE 6 MILLIONS

Senator L. L. Marshall (R) of Cleveland estimated that its passage will result in the immediate issuance of more than $6,500,000 in poor relief bonds.

"My city council is waiting for your vote on this bill so it can proceed with relief steps at a special meeting tonight," Senator John A. Lloyd (R) of Portsmouth told the senate. Other senators said their home towns and cities were equally in need.

Governor White promised Tuesday that his welfare improvement suggestions would be ready "in a few days." The senate hopes he will have it in shape for presentation next week.

RADIO RECEIVER SALE TOTAL FOR 1930 THOT 3,828,000

WASHINGTON, March 6.—Sales of radio receivers for 1930 numbered 3,828,000, exceeding the expectations, although 610,000 units were sold in 1929, O. H. Caldwell, editor of Radio Retailing, said today.

The favorable showing was due to the popularity of the midget, and to drastic price reductions all along the line," Caldwell reported.

"Total retail set sales, volume in dollars, slumped 44 per cent to $322,198,000 for 1930 as against $592,000,000 for 1929. This drop also can be charged to mangled model values and universal price cutting plus general business conditions and heightened sales resistance due to growing saturation."

Caldwell said the midget trend did not become a serious factor until September, such was the demand for a $60 receiver that 1,130,000 units were sold prior to January 1, 1931, or 30 per cent of the total sales. It was estimated the ratio of sales of midget sets this year will run to fifty per cent.

"Over production, followed by dumping, while still rampant and indulged in by certain going concerns with national reputations, was less responsible for the destruction of price standards than was the availability of brand name products released by bankrupt companies, by those obliged to liquidate at any price to obtain ready cash, or by the deliberate fabrication of trade marked radio merchandise for dumping purposes only," Caldwell declared.

The former radio commissioner said that many recent developments will exercise a decided influence of a corrective nature on all four of these negative factors. The entire industry has held to be thoroughly aroused, realizing the cause for its past troubles, and making efforts to remove them.

Caldwell said the sharp lowering of the average list price of radio receivers from $133, less tubes in 1929, to $87 for 1930, indicates the lessening of the "furniture appeal" and the prevalence of "over-the-counter" selling. To increase his gross volume and his net profit the independent dealer must broaden his line and his sale promotional activities from now on, according to Caldwell.

BILL TO INCREASE DEMAND FOR CREAM

Dairy farmers and ice cream manufacturers of the state are giving their support to a bill introduced by Representative Guard of Champaign-co and recommended for passage by the Agriculture Committee of the House, the purpose of which is to increase the butterfat content in ice cream from eight to ten percent and to define ice cream, ices, sherbets, so-called ice cream substitutes, etc. Many ice cream manufacturers are now making ice cream with a butterfat content of ten percent or more.

It is contended by the dairy interests that this proposed increase in butterfat content would improve the quality of ice cream and increase its food value; widen the market for cream in Ohio, by requiring 25 percent more butterfat than at present, and eliminating certain unfair competition. Ice cream manufacturers believe that the increased butterfat content will add to the consumption of ice cream as the public appreciates the higher quality.

Retail sales of ice cream in Ohio amount to about $30,000,000 annually, according to the dairy products industry, and nearly one million dollars a month is paid to Ohio farmers for dairy products which find their way into the ice cream trade.

Circleville is listed among the leading dairy products centers of the state.

OFFICIALS SEE NEW TREATY AS NO AFFECT ON LONDON'S

WASHINGTON — Confident it will prove acceptable to the United States and would in no way affect American-British-Japanese ratios in the London Naval Treaty, officials today herald the newly attained Franco-Italian-British naval agreement as a harbinger of eased tension in Europe and an important contribution towards world peace.

From President Hoover down, they saw in amicable settlement of the Franco-Italian naval dispute, which threatened the London naval conference, the conclusion of long bickering.

"The Franco-Italian naval settlement marks the completion of the work which began two years ago in naval reduction and the ending of competition in naval construction among the five leading naval powers," President Hoover said.

Mr. Hoover paid tribute to the men of all nationalities who had a part in formulating the agreement.

"In the last phase of the negotiations," he said, "Mr. Henderson, Mr. Briand and Mr. Grandi have given it the full measure of their statesmanship, and the successful result is a matter for congratulation in the whole world. I am happy to acknowledge, also, the impetus given the settlement by the suggestions of Ambassador Gibson, conveyed in Paris and Rome last November."

Secretary of State Stimson saw in the new agreement an end to apprehension Great Britain would ever be forced to resort to the famous "escalator" clause of the London treaty, permitting building beyond treaty limits if rival nations should wholly parties to the treaty should begin a naval building race. He indicated the agreement would find favor in the eyes of this government, and feel confident it will in no way affect countries party to the London treaty other than France, Italy and Britain.

Charles C. Dawes, American Ambassador to Great Britain, called the department the British Foreign Ministry would forward a copy of the agreement, along with an explanatory statement, to Sir Ronald Lindsay, British Ambassador.

SCIENCE BILL TO BE KILLED

COLUMBUS, O.—Apparently unmoved by new Christian Science pleadings for recognition of the constitutional grant of religious freedom, members of the state senate health committee indicated today that they will kill the Weber bill which permits charging of a fee for the treatment of human ailments by prayer.

Despite the plea of Frank M. Stevens, Elyria attorney, that "it isn't right for this cloud of lawlessness to hang over a law abiding people," it was apparent that the measure is doomed. The present law denies Christian Science practitioners the right to ask a fee for prayers.

BUENOS AIRES—The Prince of Wales and his brother, Prince George, will reach their objective as Britain's "trade ambassadors" with arrival here by airplane from Mar Del Plata.

The royal travelers will be given an elaborate welcome, but the heir at least will find cause for disappointment in regards to the British trade exposition. From all indication, the project will be far from completed by March 14, the day set for the official opening.

He addressed a telegraph of complaint to the secretary of the exposition, who immediately dispatched high-powered publicity men to Chile and elsewhere to make the west coast "exposition conscious."

The American club of Buenos Aires, which on the previous occasion of the Prince's visit here entertained him so well that he left London determined to renew his acquaintance with those "American roughnecks," today shared the disappointment of many social leaders who learned the royal guests would not be available for a convivial evening together.

"Elaborate arrangements had been completed by the 'roughnecks' to duplicate their previous rollicking get-together after former United States Consul - General Morgan brought word from England that the Prince, before sailing, stated that he was 'sure going to see those boys again.'"

Sir J. W. R. MacLeay, British ambassador to the Argentine, definitely turned thumbs down on the plan of receiving the club's formal invitation.

Construction on the exposition building is being rushed, but another full month will be necessary to finish the project.

ORDER DAIRIES BE BOYCOTTED

DAYTON, O.—Fifteen Montgomery county dairymen today were ordered "boycotted" by Dr. A. O. Peters, city health commissioner, because they had failed to make cattle tests showing their herds to be free from tuberculosis.

Dr. Peters indicated that the order is the first shot in a battle against county producers and that a ban may be placed against 100 or more other dairymen.

The order instructs distributors of dairy products not to accept milk from those who have failed to have their cattle tested.

Airplanes on all of the world's air routes flew a distance equivalent to 20,000 times around the earth during 1930.

Standards

THE thoughts of men have struggled through centuries of difficulty to freedom from traditional autocracies, grim superstitions and ignorant fears. These tyrants laid heavy hands on human progress, but from some of them we are now delivered, and to that extent have taken into our own hands the shaping of our destinies.

But there is no great gain without some loss, and our new-found freedom has its penalties. We are on our way, but we are far from certain where we are going. The passing of the overlordship of ancient error has permitted the multiplication of new prophets and theories and codes, whose name is Legion and whose consequence is confusion.

Standards we must have if we are to live at peace or make war intelligently, and the substitution of countless individual codes for the simple arrogance of old autocracy is not the proper fruit of progress. Freedom from error should make the way clear for truth, whose laws are absolute, eternal and of universal application. When the divided loyalties of the world rally to such a standard and serve it with even a fraction of the energy that is now spent on inconsequence, deliverance will be complete and the land of promise at hand.

Facing the Future

THE education of former times was principally a matter of preparing a man for the present by teaching him the past, and, therefore, each generation was recognized by the heir and descendant of those that preceded it. But the tremendous increase in knowledge during the last half century led first to the necessity for selection and later to the discovery that such selection would inevitably guide the future into one course or another.

It was proved by experience that education can mold a nation or a race just as surely as an individual can train himself for one profession or another. The world, which had once been content with the haphazard consequences of an education that looked chiefly backward, was brought face to face with a definite responsibility to the future.

We now know so much about training men that we need to know definitely what we are to train them for. We need to determine surely what is worth while and what is important, since our notions on these matters will prove either a blessing or a burden to the generations that follow us. If we are content today with confusion of purposes and ideals, our children will pay the penalty. With the increase in new knowledge there comes a new responsibility to the future, since we know beyond peradventure that its destiny lies largely in our hands.

Uneasy Conscience

THE world is not indifferent to its spiritual destiny. It flourishes in doubt, grief and uncertainty, but its problems are heavy on its mind and conscience. This uneasy conscience speaks through the printing press. In books we hear the world's confession of faith and lack of faith in its ideals, doubts and self-doubts, its loyalty to old states and high hopes for future ones. Here the world judges its own past and prophesies its own future.

Aquaintance with the more serious books of the day reveals some clear trends of the times. It shows that old standards are taken into doubt while new ones are not yet chosen. It tells of a spiritual crisis, of the new scientific faith, which casts doubt on man's spiritual responsibility. It offers many promises of remedies for the world's ills and strange assortment of deities for a new and barbaric civilization. It reveals moments of doubt, indecision and even despair.

It is curious to note that these uneasies are typical of all of mature youth but of certain and constant youth. The uneasy conscience of the world is a mark of its own youthfulness. If the books of the day are so many signs and symptoms, then it appears that civilization is indeed scarce grown to manhood and must yet have a lot of growing to do.

"FOREST LOVE" by HAZEL LIVINGSTON

Becoming cynical at her mother's wish to have her marry for wealth, Nancy Hollenbeck, young and beautiful, accepts the ardent attentions of Jack Beamer, who is married to a wealthy invalid. On a mountain trip, Nancy, after a brief courtship, marries Roger Decatur, a ranger. Sickening of the loneliness, with Roger away, she returns home to resume her old life, still keeping her marriage secret. When Roger, deeply in love with Nancy, comes to take her back, she tells him, "I'll divorce him, although she realizes her own love for him. She confides in her grandmother who gives her financial aid. After Roger leaves, Nancy continues her clandestine affair with Beamer, whose wife refuses to free him. Louise, Nancy's sister, always second with men, now has a rich, though elderly, suitor. Beamer takes Nancy to his farm as a jaunt.

NEW year... new promise off with the old, on with the new... A new world of luxury, of fast cars, fine horses, lovely gardens.

Jack drove faster than ever after that. Nancy slumped in her seat, humming, watching the telephone poles try past.

"Oh, Jack! It's perfect!" "Wait till you see the Nevada property... but I've got some promising ones here."

"Did she?" Nancy looked to get into a saddle. "But I didn't bring any riding clothes."

"Never mind, there were plenty in the house."

"To whom did they belong?" Nancy wondered, pulling on a long, powder, brushes, rows of silken gowns.

"To whom did they belong?" Nancy wondered, pulling on a long, powder, brushes, rows of silken gowns.

Jack driving expertly, swiftly, looked at her and laughed.

The suitcase. Powder, silk stockings, her little satin slippers. "The bath water running down out the window, she thought she imagined it. But it got louder. There was no longer any doubt. Someone was tapping at the door."

"Nancy—for God's sake—can't you hear me?" It was Jack. With her kimono wrapped tight around her, still warm and powdery, Nancy opened the door a crack.

"Yes—what—what's happened?" She tried to sound natural and casual, but her heart was in her throat. She had caught the note of urgency, of fright, in Jack's voice. She was badly frightened.

With Nancy out of the way he felt better. He'd be able to master the situation yet.

"I wanted some air, and it is a pleasant ride down here," she said in her flat, thin voice. She was taking off the heavy wraps in which she was wrapped. Her tired eyes moved about the neat little living room. She held her head slightly on one side, as if she were listening.

Jack's good humor vanished. "Snooping, was she?" "Just why did you come here?" he demanded roughly, striding over to her, taking her firmly by the shoulders.

Once that would have infuriated her. But now she was calm. Now that she had seen him, she didn't have to hide her jealousy. She could cry until her nose was pink under its film of white powder, and her poor, watery eyes were rimmed with red, it was nothing to Jack. She knew that at last. She had nothing to lose.

"I can come if I want to. It's my ranch," she said sullenly, beginning to unwind the veils and muffs.

"Go on, rub it in!" "But, Jack, I have to! If I didn't you'd leave me. I know—I know you want a divorce. It's my only way to—to keep you—"

"Nonsense!" "But you told me so yourself... how can I think anything else?" She was sniffing now, dabbing at her pink nose with a lace-edged handkerchief, her eyes pleading, pleading for him to deny it.

"Dinner ready!" the Chinaman said.

Jack pulled out her chair at the little table near the fire. "That was long ago. Nothing to talk about now. Let's have dinner. Talk about, will you?"

ONE OF THOSE JOLLY FAMILY CONFERENCES

How to Treat Chronic Lead Poisoning

This Condition, Most Common with Metal Workers, Requires Careful Nursing and Hygienic Living.

By R. S. COPELAND, M. D.
U. S. Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

Men constantly exposed to lead are likely to suffer from lead poisoning. It is common in lead-workers, house painters, gliders, artists and others who are brought in constant contact with the metal in one form or another.

You will be surprised to learn that in very small quantities, this metal is found in flour, beer, cider, wines, teas, vinegar, sausage and canned fruits. It is found in numerous drugs, especially those manufactured by the acid of sulphuric acid.

In view of the rigid food regulations maintained by each State, we rarely find cases of such poisoning due to eating food. These regulations are applied too, in the manufacture and sale of drugs. Acute lead poisoning is not common. When it occurs, it is seldom fatal. The symptoms come on suddenly. There is a metallic taste in the mouth with a burning sensation. There is a feeling of great drowsiness in the mouth and throat. Vomiting, followed by marked retching and pain in the abdomen, is another symptom. The pain and discomfort are stubborn and, though recovery occurs, it may be delayed for some time.

Paralysis of Muscles
The chief sign of chronic lead poisoning is the general ill health that always accompanies it. The digestion is poor, the appetite lessens, and the bowels are upset. The skin assumes a peculiar color, often appearing almost yellow.

The gums frequently show a black streak which is recognized as a sign of metal poisoning. Occasionally the teeth turn black. They become loose and are extremely sensitive to heat and cold.

A pregnant woman exposed to lead poisoning is in danger of losing her baby. Under such circumstances it is rare to carry the child to full term.

A very common effect of lead poisoning is the weakening and paralysis of the muscles. The muscles of the arm and forearm are usually involved. Paralysis of the hand and fingers is most characteristic. The wrists droop down, producing a condition known as "wrist drop." This is one of the most constant of the symptoms.

Advanced chronic lead poisoning may involve the eye, producing partial or total blindness. The kidneys may become affected.

In treating chronic lead poisoning, it is essential that the affected person be removed from all contact with lead. First plenty of fresh air and sunshine and nourishing food are advised. Careful nursing and hygienic living usually restore the individual to health.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK?
by Edson R. White

THAT every city has two classes of people: the men who do things to build up the community and the men who do not. BE A BUILDER! The building of a city is a partnership business; every citizen is a partner and when a number of the partners refuse to lend their assistance there is just that much less chance for happiness and prosperity.

Optimism tempered with conservatism always starts better business. You cannot do much where there is distrust. Everyone should face conditions squarely and go ahead. Every city should set a goal and work toward that goal. MOST PEOPLE ARE SO INTENT ON LOOKING AHEAD, PLANNING AHEAD AND FORGING AHEAD THAT THEY SELDOM TAKE TIME TO LOOK BACKWARD. "Like it?" he grinned. "Oh, Jack! It's—its perfect—" "Wait till you see the Nevada property, but I've got some promising ponies here."

They waded through high, wet grass. The stables loomed ahead. "Want to ride?"

Did she? Nancy ached to get into a saddle. "But I didn't bring any riding clothes—"

Never mind, there were plenty in the house.

Fright.

To whom did they belong? Nancy wondered, pulling on a boot. Powder, brushes, rows of silken gowns. Anita Beamer's? Surely Mrs. Garfield wouldn't have all this. But she couldn't think very well... those unaccustomed drinks.

They rode through meadows yellow with flowering mustard, over soft dirt roads, around the race track... fast... faster... Nancy's hair was flying, her cheeks were scarlet. Once she asked, "But where is Mrs. Garfield?"

"Drop that curb!" Jack shouted. "Just a firm hand on the snaffle—there, that's fine. You'll make a horseman yet."

Nancy glowed. She was riding Eagle Moon Maid, by the great hunter, Diamond, out of the famous French line. Jack's most promising hunter... think of it! Riding Moon Maid.

Long before they were tired it was dusk. "Hurry!" Jack cautioned. "You can't keep these temperamental chooks waiting."

"Six minutes!" Panting, tingling with excitement, Nancy slammed the door of the pretty bedroom behind her, and pulled off her riding things.

She had brought her rose crepe dinner dress... now where was the belt? Out came everything in faith in majorities. It is charged that by majority rule injustice is imposed on those who lack numbers to match their faith and conviction.

Calmer judgment recognizes that majority rule makes no claim to measure truth by the tabulation of totals nor to grant power as of right to the force of numbers. A majority is no more than a demonstration of a margin of opinion, conviction and directional effort in national life. It reveals a definite national character and a measurable pressure of progress arising out of the vitality of the country.

There is safety in the margin revealed by majorities. There is no safety in the average, for it is at the mercy of doubt and indecision. It is vulnerable on all sides and has no reserve strength to meet unexpected shocks and challenges.

We cannot stand always at a crossroad; we must choose a highway for better or ill and tread it with confidence. Just as a man weighs all things and at last goes forward in the path of greatest promise, so the nation must accede to margins of majorities.

There is no other formula which can keep the national conduct faithful to the national character.

Some of our movies depicting high life appear to have been produced by that half of the world that doesn't know how the other half lives.

WALKER ON TRIP

NEW YORK, March 6.—Mayor James J. Walker, will leave early next week to spend several weeks resting at Palm Springs, Cal. He said he hoped to visit Governor James Rolph, Jr., of California, and also attend the South of Market boys dinner in San Francisco on March 17.

Jack driving expertly, swiftly, looked at her and laughed.

the suitcase. Powder, silk stockings, her little satin slippers... The bath water running drowned out the sound at first. Then she thought she imagined it. But it got louder. There was no longer any doubt. Someone was tapping at the door.

"Nancy—for God's sake—can't you hear me?" It was Jack.

With her kimono wrapped tight around her, still warm and powdery, Nancy opened the door a crack.

"Yes—what—what's happened?" She tried to sound natural and casual, but her heart was in her throat. She had caught the note of urgency... fright... in Jack's voice. She was badly frightened.

The Escape.

Jack wasted no time in calming her. "My wife's here. There'll be hell to pay if she finds us." He surveyed Nancy's sketchy attire with a cold and gloomy eye.

"Oh!" That was as far as she got before he was in the room with her, throwing her belongings hastily into a pile. "Hurry—for God's sake, Nancy—don't stand there doing nothing! I tell you my wife's here... here, take your stuff and finish dressing in the kitchen. If you hear any coming, dive into the pantry. I'll sneak out into town or I'll get Tucker, the groom—"

He was slamming her things into the bag as he whispered. Crumpling the rose crepe, spilling powder, pushing her into the corridor... panting... shouting... "Could this be Jack? Jack of the beautiful manners, the generations of noble family? ... Could this be she? Being pushed out, half dressed, hidden in a corner like a... a... she couldn't say it... not even to herself.

"Where's Mrs. Garfield?" Nancy jerked away angrily. "This is ridiculous. Call Mrs. Garfield. I won't hide—I won't."

For a moment she thought he was going to cover her mouth... gag her... Tears of futile rage choked her as effectively as if he had.

"Please, Nancy—please!" he was whispering hoarsely. "Please! The Garfields aren't here. They've gone for the week and Anita knows it."

"They aren't here." Her voice rose again. Indignantly she shook off his hands. "But you said... that was one of the reasons I came! Jack Beamer, you know I'd never have gotten into this mess if I'd known!"

"Quit arguing now, please, Nancy. I'll explain later."

"Go on, rub it in." "But, Jack, I have to! If I didn't, you'd leave me. I know—I know you want a divorce. It's my only way to—to keep you—"

"Nonsense!" "But you told me so yourself... how can I think anything else?" She was sniffling now, dabbing at her pink nose with a lace-edged handkerchief, her eyes pleading, pleading for him to deny.

"Dinner ready!" the Chinaman said. Jack pulled out her chair at the little table near the fire. "That was long ago. Nothing to talk about now. Let's have dinner. Sit down, will you?"

THEATRES

AT THE CLIFTONA
Nancy Carroll, the adorable... of millions of film fans, is triumphing in a new dramatic play at the Cliftona Theatre.

"Laughter" is a vehicle which gives full opportunity to Miss Carroll for a display of her emotional capabilities. She doesn't miss a moment of this big chance for new dramatic honors. Throughout the tense action of the play Miss Carroll sweeps along in a superb portrayal of an ex-Follies girl who, as the wife in a mismatched marriage, tries to be loyal—and is, but who always seems to be victimized by the irony of circumstances.

Freddie March, as a young pianist-composer who has been in love with Nancy prior to her marriage to Frank Morgan, the rich broker, pops into the picture again as a romantic menace, a sort of Bonaparte heartthrob and troublemaker.

AT THE GRAND
George Sawley, chief of the property department of the Tiffany studios, was unloading big bunches of bananas on a huge set constructed for "Paradise Island," the current attraction at the Grand Theatre.

It was fifteen minutes before shooting would start, but Director Bert Glennon was on the scene, and so were eighty native players. Kenneth Harlan, Marceline Day, Paul Hurst and one or two other members of the cast had arrived.

"Oh, kill that ugly spider!" screamed one of the bronze-limbed extra girls, jumping about three yards in one leap.

Sawley slapped a flat board on the spider with such venom that the sound engineers objected to the unexpected harsh explosive noise. "That was an 'ugly spider' all right, lady," said Sawley and began a thorough search of the set, "but in some places they call 'em tarantulas."

AT THE MET
Helen Twelveteens, who plays opposite Bill Boyd in "The Painted Desert" was introduced to the Arizona desert in a manner that prepared her for any eventuality. "The little actress literally blew into the location camp on the wings of a sand storm."

Driving ninety miles over Indian trails from Flagstaff, Arizona, to Tuba City, Miss Twelveteens, who was chauffeured by Mr. Boyd from the railroad town, struck the sand storm just beyond Cameron. They were forced to drive through the blinding windblown sand to the Tuba City trading post where the remainder of the company was in camp.

Howard Higgin directed "The Painted Desert," which will be on view at the Met Theatre on Saturday and Sunday. The cast includes William Farnum, J. Farrell MacDonald, Clark Gable, Charles Sellen, Al St. John, Edmund Breese and other notable players.

PERJURER HELD IN CAPONE CASE
CHICAGO, Mar. 6.—Louis "Two Gun" Altieri, veteran of Chicago's earlier gang wars, was under arrest today on a federal warrant charging him with perjury as a result of his reported refusal to testify regarding Alphonse Capone's income tax affairs.

Altieri's arrest was interpreted by authorities as an indication that the indictment of Capone for income tax evasion will be sought within this next two weeks.

ONE OF THOSE JOLLY FAMILY CONFERENCES

How to Treat Chronic Lead Poisoning

This Condition, Most Common with Metal Workers, Requires Careful Nursing and Hygienic Living.

By R. S. COPELAND, M. D.
U. S. Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health
New York City.

MEN constantly exposed to lead are likely to suffer from lead poisoning. It is common in lead-workers, house painters, gliders, artists and others who are brought in constant contact with the metal in one form or another.

You will be surprised to learn that, in very small quantities, this metal is found in flour, beer, cider, wines, teas, vinegars, sugar and candies. It is found in numerous drugs, especially those manufactured by the aid of sulphuric acid.

In view of the rigid food regulations maintained by each State, we rarely find cases of such poisoning due to eating food. These precautions are applied, too, in the manufacture and sale of drugs.

Acute lead poisoning is not common. When it occurs it is seldom fatal. The symptoms come on suddenly. There is a metallic taste in the mouth with a burning sensation. There is a feeling of great dryness in the mouth and throat. Vomiting, followed by marked retching and pain in the abdomen, is another symptom. The pain and discomfort are stubborn and, though recovery occurs, it may be delayed for some time.

Paralysis of Muscles
The chief sign of chronic lead poisoning is the general ill health that always accompanies it. The digestion is poor, the appetite lessens, and the bowels are upset. The skin assumes a peculiar color, often appearing almost yellow.

The gums frequently show a black streak which is recognized as a sign of metal poisoning. Occasionally the teeth turn black. They become loose and are extremely sensitive to heat and cold.

A pregnant woman exposed to lead poisoning is in danger of losing the baby. Under such circumstances it is rare to carry the child to full term.

A very common effect of lead poisoning is the weakening and paralysis of the muscles. The muscles of the arm and forearm are usually involved. Paralysis of the hand and fingers is most characteristic. The wrists droop down, producing a condition spoken of as "wrist drop." This is one of the most constant of the symptoms.

Advanced chronic lead poisoning may involve the eye, producing partial or total blindness. The kidneys may become affected.

In treating chronic lead poisoning, it is essential that the affected person be removed from all contact with lead. Rest, plenty of fresh air and sunshine, and nourishing food, are advised. Careful nursing and hygienic living usually restore the individual.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK
by Edson R. Waite
Shawnee, Okla.

THAT every city has two classes of people: the men who do things to build up the community and the men who do not. BE A BUILDER! The building of a city is a partnership business; every citizen is a partner and when a number of the partners refuse to lend their assistance there is just that much less chance for happiness and prosperity.

Optimism tempered with conservatism always starts better business. You cannot do much where there is distrust.

Everyone should face conditions squarely and go ahead. Every city should set a goal and work toward that goal.

WRITER SAYS WOMEN MAKE BEST AUTOMOBILE DRIVERS

That women are better automobile drivers than men, is the deduction made by William L. Chenery, editor of Collier's Weekly from a striking analysis of motor accident records from forty states. After making every allowance for the larger numbers of men drivers and the greater mileage covered by them, Mr. Chenery concludes that women drivers were responsible for proportionately fewer deaths and injuries in the 1930 totals than men.

As a whole, American motorists were guilty of more reckless driving in 1930 than ever before in history. Auto accidents killed 32,500 people and injured 960,000 more. The casualties among children under five years of age were 2,000 killed and 45,000 injured. The World war did not take a greater toll of American lives in battle.

Improper driving and nothing else was responsible for more than two-thirds of all the deaths and injuries. Speeding, driving on the wrong side of the road and failure to grant right of way, all evidences of improper driving, accounted for sixty-eight per cent of the accidents.

More than 80,000 accidents resulted from motorists driving off the roadway. The biggest single cause of accidents, however, was the improper attempt to take the right of way from some other traveler—in a harsh word, hogging.

Not only is reckless driving the greatest cause of motor accidents but also is the carelessness of pedestrians the chief explanation of the accidents which befall them. Last year more than 7,000 pedestrians were killed in automobile accidents for which pedestrians were themselves responsible. The greater number of these, however, were children and old people, the two classes least able to care for themselves.

The hour of the day and the day of the week of the accidents also tell significant stories. Afternoon is the danger time. Between 4 and 9 p. m. occur thirty-eight per cent of the accidents which result in death. Drivers are tired and hurried during those hours. Week-end driving is most hazardous. Sunday is the worst day and Saturday next. The safest days to drive are Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

"The encouraging aspect of the year's appalling record," says Mr. Chenery, "lies in the fact that recklessness was its principal cause. If carelessness and overconfidence kill and injure so many, carefulness and consideration can prevent such losses. The majority of accidents occurred on straight and dry roads in broad daylight with experienced and mature drivers at the wheel. In an overwhelming majority the machine functioned properly; the man was at fault. He took unjustifiable chances. Young men were the worst offenders. The enthusiasm of youth can make a motor car a dangerous weapon.

"It is perfectly obvious to anyone who thinks about this distressing record of injury and death that it will not be allowed to continue unchallenged. Mileage decreased last year by about ten per cent, according to gasoline sales records. Yet with less driving we had more accidents. Cars could not be blamed since nearly eighty-nine per

SUGGESTS DIET FOR CHILDREN

Children are more likely to develop into healthy grown-ups if their meals include such foods as milk, eggs or meat, cereals or other grain products, vegetables, fruits, and small amounts of sweets and fats, believes Miss Lucia Ogle, extension specialist in home economics at the Ohio State University.

Where plenty of milk and eggs are included in the child's diet, she says, very little meat is needed before the seventh year. About 2 ounces of meat daily for a child from 7 to 10 years, and 3 ounces daily for children between 10 and 14 years, is probably sufficient.

Vegetables possess many excellent qualities, according to Miss Ogle, and are an essential part of the diet. Potatoes should be given practically every day. A variety of vegetables in soup and stews with just enough meat for flavor make satisfactory and inexpensive hot dishes. To prevent the loss of important minerals it is best to cook all vegetables, except potatoes, in as short a time as possible.

There is considerable danger, she says, in giving children too much sugar. It dulls the appetite and interferes with digestion when used excessively and is best supplied in the form of puddings, custards, fresh fruits, or in dried fruits, such as prunes, raisins, dates, or figs. The child who has some of these foods daily will probably have his need and desire for sweets satisfied.

RAILROAD OFFSETS WORLD DEPRESSION

By carrying on a active program of improvements during 1930 and by practicing "prudent economy" to operation, the Pennsylvania Railroad made every effort "to offset the results of the world-wide depression," General W. W. Atterbury, President of the Pennsylvania Railroad, told stockholders in a letter accompanying the quarterly dividend checks mailed today.

The winter quarterly dividend of two percent, or $1 per share, was mailed to 235,025 stockholders, the largest number on record and an increase of 1,645 compared with the last previous dividend paid on Nov. 30, 1930.

The Pennsylvania Railroad has never failed to pay a cash return on its stocks since 1847, an unbroken dividend record of 84 years. Total payments, including the present dividend, amounts to $995,084,438.

"The gross revenues in 1930 were about 17 1/2 per cent less than in 1929 due to the general business depression," the president's letter said. "Expenses were necessarily reduced, but without detriment to the railroad or its ability to serve the public. The gross revenues were $574,446,995 a decrease of $118,691,776 compared with 1929. The net income equaled 10 1/2 per cent on the average outstanding capital stock, which was increased during the year; 17 3/2 per cent was earned on the average stock outstanding in 1929.

"Every effort was made to offset the results of the world-wide depression by practicing prudent economy in the operations on the one hand, and on the other by carrying out an active program of electrification and necessary improvement in this constructive manner shops, equipment and facilities, which gave widespread employment. In this constructive manner your company and its subsidiary companies expended over $100,000,000.

In connection with last year's expenditures for electrification and improvement, President Atterbury recently announced that work would be speeded up to complete a broad improvement program, originally scheduled to cover four years, in two and one half years. This program contemplates the expenditure of $175,000,000 in pushing to completion improvements at Philadelphia, Baltimore and Newark, N. J. and electrification of the Pennsylvania's entire line from New York to Washington.

Decision to speed up work on this huge program, President Atterbury said, was made because of favorable commodity prices, to aid the employment situation and because of favorable conditions for new financing.

cent were apparently in good condition at the time of the accident.

"As drivers we are not so good as the cars we operate. Automobiles are built for safety but we throw caution to the wind and reap the harvest of recklessness. What we have to learn is that safety is more important than speed.

"When you drive remember that a lot of idiots are on the road and that you may have to protect yourself against both fools and road hogs and occasional drunks as well as against absent-minded pedestrians and heedless children. In such fashion you will at least have made your contribution to national safety and, incidentally, you will get more pleasure and more, and more use out of your motor car."

BELL COMPANY ASSETS GROW

NEW YORK.—The continued growth of assets of the Bell Telephone system to an amount in excess of $5,000,000,000 was the outstanding disclosure in the annual report of 1930 operations of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company released today. This is the first time in American financial history that a business corporation has been able to reach the $5,000,000,000 mark in point of assets.

Despite the fact that total operating revenues during 1930 exceeded those of the previous year by $33,000,000 or three per cent, the increase in operating expenses resulted in a decline of net earnings, which were reported to be $267,374,000, $8,800,000 less than in 1929 and at the rate of 5 1/2 per cent on the cost of plant and other assets.

Earnings of American Telephone and Telegraph computed on a per share basis were equal to $10.44 on 15,856,896 average shares outstanding, as compared with $12.67 per share in 1929 on 13,113,746 average shares outstanding at that time.

The increase in capitalization was due to the offering of 2,579,407 shares to stockholders on May 23rd, and 2,061,897 shares which

ONE of the chief reasons for the flashing acceleration and smooth speed and power of Nash Eight-80 and Eight-90 models is aircraft-type Twin-Ignition. CHILD IS DEAD
MOTHER INJURED

CLEVELAND.—A three-year-old boy was dead and his mother was reported in a serious condition at the Evangelical Deaconess hospital, as the result of a collision of a New York Central freight train with an automobile in which they were riding at a Cleveland crossing.

The victim was Wesley Stroup, who died of a fractured skull in Lakewood hospital a short time after the crash. His mother, Mrs. Janette Stroup, 30, sustained possible internal injuries and a fractured leg.

WRITER SAYS WOMEN MAKE
BEST AUTOMOBILE DRIVERS

That women are better automobile drivers than men, is the deduction made by William L. Cheney, editor of Collier's Weekly from a striking analysis of motor accident records from forty states. After making every allowance for the larger numbers of men drivers and the greater mileage covered by them, Mr. Cheney concludes that women drivers were responsible for proportionately fewer deaths and injuries in the 1930 totals than men.

As a whole, American motorists were guilty of more reckless driving in 1930 than ever before in history.

SUGGESTS DIET
FOR CHILDREN

Children are more likely to develop into healthy grown-ups if their meals include such foods as milk, eggs or meat, cereals or other grain products, vegetables, fruits, and small amounts of sweets and fats, believes Miss Lucia Ogle, extension specialist in home economics at the Ohio State University.

Where plenty of milk and eggs are included in the child's diet, she says, very little meat is needed before the seventh year. About 2 ounces of meat daily for a child from 7 to 10 years, and 3 ounces daily for children between 10 and 14 years, is probably sufficient.

Vegetables possess many excellent qualities, according to Miss Ogle, and are an essential part of the diet. Potatoes should be given practically every day. A variety of vegetables in soup and stews with just enough meat for flavor make satisfactory and inexpensive hot dishes. To prevent the loss of important minerals it is best to cook all vegetables, except potatoes, in as short a time as possible.

There is considerable danger, she says, in giving children too much sugar. It dulls the appetite and interferes with digestion when used excessively and is best supplied in the form of puddings, custards, fresh fruits, or in dried fruits, such as prunes, raisins, dates, or figs. The child who has some of these foods daily will probably have his need and desire for sweets satisfied.

RAILROAD OFFSETS
WORLD DEPRESSION

By carrying on a active program of improvements during 1930 and by practicing "prudent economy" to operation, the Pennsylvania Railroad made every effort "to offset the results of the world-wide depression," General W. W. Atterbury, President of the Pennsylvania Railroad, told stockholders in a letter accompanying the quarterly dividend checks mailed today.

The winter quarterly dividend of two percent, or $1 per share, was mailed to 235,025 stockholders, the largest number on record and an increase of 1,645 compared with the last previous dividend paid on Nov. 30, 1930.

The Pennsylvania Railroad has never failed to pay a cash return on its stocks since 1847, an unbroken dividend record of 84 years. Total payments, including the present dividend, amounts to $995,084, 438.

"The gross revenues in 1930 were about 17.1 per cent less than in 1929 due to the general business depression," the president's letter said. "Expenses were necessarily reduced, but without detriment to the railroad or its ability to serve the public. The gross revenues were $574,446,995, a decrease of $118,691,776 compared with 1929. The net income equaled 10.5 per cent on the average outstanding capital stock, which was increased during the year; 17.32 per cent was earned on the average stock outstanding in 1929.

"Every effort was made to offset the results of the world-wide depression by practicing prudent economy in the operations on the one hand, and on the other by carrying out an active program of electrification and necessary improvement. In this constructive manner shops, equipment and facilities, which gave widespread employment. In this constructive manner your company and its subsidiary companies expended over $100,000,000."

In connection with last year's expenditures for electrification and improvement, President Atterbury recently announced that work would be speeded up to complete a broad improvement program, originally scheduled to cover four years, in two and one half years. This program contemplates the expenditure of $175,000,000 in pushing to completion improvements at Philadelphia, Baltimore and Newark, N. J., and electrification of the Pennsylvania's entire line from New York to Washington.

Decision to speed up work on this huge program, President Atterbury said, was made because of favorable commodity prices, to aid the employment situation and because of favorable conditions for new financing.

Auto accidents killed 32,500 people and injured 960,000 more. The casualties among children under five years of age were 2,000 killed and 45,000 injured. The World war did not take a greater toll of American lives in battle.

Improper driving and nothing else was responsible for more than two-thirds of all the deaths and injuries. Speeding, driving on the wrong side of the road and failure to grant right of way, all evidences of improper driving, accounted for sixty-eight per cent of the accidents.

More than 80,000 accidents resulted from motorists driving off the roadway. The biggest single cause of accidents, however, was the improper attempt to take the right of way from some other traveler—in a harsh word, hogging the road.

Not only is reckless driving the greatest cause of motor accidents but also is the carelessness of pedestrians the chief explanation of the accidents which befall them. Last year more than 7,000 pedestrians were killed in automobile accidents for which pedestrians were themselves responsible. The greater number of these, however, were children and old people, the two classes least able to care for themselves.

The hour of the day and the day of the week of the accidents also tell significant stories. Afternoon is the danger time. Between 4 and 9 p. m. occur thirty-eight per cent of the accidents which result in death. Drivers are tired and hurried during those hours. Week-end driving is most hazardous. Sunday is the worst day and Saturday next. The safest days to drive are Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

"The encouraging aspect of the year's appalling record," says Mr. Cheney, "lies in the fact that recklessness was its principal cause. If carelessness and over-confidence kill and injure so many, carefulness and consideration can prevent such losses. The majority of accidents occurred on straight and dry roads in broad daylight with experienced and mature drivers at the wheel. In an overwhelming majority the machine functioned properly; the man was at fault. He took unjustifiable chances. Young men were the worst offenders. The enthusiasm of youth can make a motor car a dangerous weapon.

"It is perfectly obvious to anyone who thinks about this distressing record of injury and death that it will not be allowed to continue unchallenged. Mileage decreased last year by about ten per cent, according to gasoline sales records. Yet with less driving we had more accidents. Cars could not be blamed since nearly eighty-nine per cent were apparently in good condition at the time of the accident. "As drivers we are not so good as the cars we operate. Automobiles are built for safety but we throw caution to the wind and reap the harvest of recklessness. What we have to learn is that safety is more important than speed.

"When you drive remember that a lot of idiots are on the road and that you may have to protect yourself against both fools and road hogs and occasional drunks as well as against absent-minded pedestrians and heedless children. In such fashion you will at least have made your contribution to national safety and, incidentally, you will get more pleasure and more and more use out of your motor car."

BELL COMPANY
ASSETS GROW

NEW YORK.—The continued growth of assets of the Bell Telephone system to an amount in excess of $5,000,000,000 was the outstanding disclosure in the annual report of 1930 operations of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company released today. This is the first time in American financial history that a business corporation has been able to reach the $5,000,000,000 mark in point of assets.

Despite the fact that total operating revenues during 1930 exceeded those of the previous year by $33,000,000 or three per cent, the increase in operating expenses resulted in a decline of net earnings, which were reported to be $267,874,000, $8,800,000 less than in 1929 and at the rate of 5.8 per cent on the cost of plant and other assets.

Earnings of American Telephone and Telegraph computed on a per share basis were equal to $10.44 on 15,856,896 average shares outstanding, as compared with $12.67 per share in 1929 on 13,113,746 average shares outstanding at that time.

The increase in capitalization was due to the offering of 2,579,407 shares to stockholders on May 23rd, and 2,061,897 shares which were issued in exchange for convertible bonds.

The general curtailment in business in the past year resulted in a sharp decline in the number of telephones installed which amounted ed to 122,500 as against 821,400 in 1929.

The eyes of Alvah Mason, 25, of Minot, Me., are said to magnify more than 100 times.

Mrs. Eleanor Saiko, of Yonkers, N. Y. who cut her hand on some glass which was imbedded in a box of laundry soap, has filed suit for $5,000 damages against the makers of the soap.

—It's a new experience!

ONE of the chief reasons for the flashing acceleration and smooth speed and power of Nash Eight-80 and Eight-90 models is aircraft-type Twin-Ignition. In each cylinder, two spark plugs placed opposite each other, fire at precisely the same instant. The highly compressed gas ignites at two points. It is burned more quickly, efficiently. The result:—A more powerful explosion—instant responsiveness—notable gasoline economy.—The moment you step on the accelerator, you will realize the important difference Twin-Ignition makes. Carnera Takes Ref's Decision

MIAMI, Fla. Mar. 6.—The opinion of shrewd observers today was that Referee Elmer McClelland of Detroit knew something when he raised the hand of Primo Carnera and then speedily ducked after the Italian giant ten-round scuffle here last night with Jimmy Maloney of Boston.

In the "battle of the bent ribs" there were no cheers among the crowd of more than 15,000 fans at Madison Square Garden stadium for the Italian's victory but no cheers for the Boston boy rose in

CATTLE TEST BEFORE HOUSE

COLUMBUS, O.—Approved by the house, the bill, by Rep. J. Grant Gault (R), of Milford Center, Union-co, amending the state law governing tuberculosis testing of cattle, today awaits consideration in the senate.

By a vote of 102 to 4, the measure passed the lower legislative branch late Wednesday.

It contains two provisions. One is that when 90 percent of the cattle throughout the state has been tested, state agents may enter the premises of the remaining 10 percent and test and destroy diseased "kitties" without consent of their owners. It also authorizes re-testing in the modified tuberculosis free accredited area.

Urging passage of the bill, the author informed the house that 60 of the 88 counties in this state are on the modified accredited list with a record of less than one-half of one percent of diseased cattle. Testing is now taking place in five of the remaining 8 counties, Gault said.

Federal and state veterinarians, and members of the Ohio Dairymen's Association, the Central Dairy Produce Council, together with cattle breeding associations and cattle owners throughout the state, endorsed the bill, declared Gault.

"GRUNT" MEN MAKE MONEY

Leaders Earn Fortunes Report Shows; Sonnenberg Made $700,000 in 1930.

BY LES CONKLIN.
NEW YORK, March 6.—How much money does a wrestler make a year?

In view of the wrestling hysteria that has gripped New York and other cities in the past three months, the writer put this question to leading mat promoters and wrestlers today. The gist of their replies was as follows:

Dynamite Gus Sonnenberg, the Dartmouth alumnus who revolutionized the sport with his flying tackle, is the leading money-maker of the modern crop of "rappers." He earned $700,000 in 1929 and 1930 "Gus the Goat," who lost his title to Ed (Don) George last December, has just started an attempted comeback and will tackle Pat McGill, of Omaha, here next Wednesday.

George already has salted away the tidy sum of $100,000 since debuting Sonnenberg. He figures to earn at least $300,000 this year.

Jim London, rival claimant to the title, has collected $60,000 since the first of the year, and expects to increase this total to between $250,000 and $300,000 by next Christmas. He has averaged at least $75,000 annually for the past 10 years, according to Promoter Jack Curley.

Jim McMillen, beaten twice by London, thinks he will gross $40,000 in 1931, or double his 1930 earnings.

R. R. TO MOVE FROM BUCYRUS

COLUMBUS, O.—Our plans are to transfer the repair and other shops of Bucyrus which serve the T. & O. Co., lines.

This was the statement today of L. S. Emery, general manager of the N. Y. C. lines in Ohio today when informed that a suit had been filed in Bucyrus to enjoin the N. Y. C. from closing its locomotive repair shops there and transferring the work to Collinwood.

Indicating that his company planned to carry out its program with regard to the Bucyrus situation, Emery said: "We have no reason to alter those plans."

Pressed for a statement as to what action would be taken in view of the suit filed in Bucyrus, Emery intimated that the litigation would be fought.

"Our attorneys have been over the matter. Other than that I can make no statement," Emery said.

FIRST CAR AT RACING FIELD

Bowes Seal Fast Special Entered By Lewis Schneider At Indianapolis.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind.—The first racing car has arrived at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, ready for the 500-mile International run here next May.

It is the earliest date in many a year that a completed car has arrived at the track so far in advance of race day and is an indication of the unusual preparations being made by the racing world to compete in the historic classic this year.

The car a Bowes Seal Fast Special is entered by Louis Schneider, of Indianapolis, who was third to Billy Arnold, winner and William "Shorty" Canton in last year's classic.

"Well, I was third last year," laughed Schneider in explanation of his early arrival at the track, "so I figured that if I could get to the track early enough and get a head start on the boys maybe I'd be second this year. If I can place second this year, I'll just remain at the track so that I can win the race next year."

Schneider, born within the shadows of the grandstands at the Indianapolis speed plant, knows every brick in the two and one-half mile circuit and has probably driven more miles in practice on the course than any of the present generation of speeders.

The father of a son, born a few months ago, Schneider has a new incentive to grab speed laurels this year. He has an enviable reputation on the Indianapolis course. Schooled in the dust of dirt Schneider came to the Indianapolis track a few years ago with a fund of experience which has stood him in good stead.

Old timers recall the first time Schneider drove the Indianapolis course. He was still turning the dirt tracks of the land as an apprenticeship for his first ride at Indianapolis. He was an "outlaw"—not a member of the AAA, the governing body of the big league speed sport—and forbidden to ride on its sacred bricks.

But his desire for a whirl over the Indianapolis bricks led him to conjure his car into the track one afternoon shortly before a 500-mile race.

Lap after lap this unknown whittled around the oval. Officials, drivers, speedway management could not decide who was in the car. They signaled the driver to pull in to the pits. But he merely laughed and kept on riding. Finally they sent a squadron of cars onto the track. In this manner he was pocketed into a standstill.

"I just wanted to get some experience on this track," said Schneider, "and I knew if I asked my request would be denied. So I did what I did."

Everybody laughed at the ambitious youth who was to return in a few years to thrill not merely a few railbirds—as he did on his first ride at Indianapolis—but more than 150,000 people, as he did in placing third in last year's contest.

REYNOLDS SPENDS MILLION DOLLARS

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C., Mar. 6.—One million dollars are being expended by the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company in the brief space of seven days to introduce, through a $50,000 prize contest, the new moisture-proof cellophane wrapper of the Camel package.

Except for a brief announcement on the company's regular weekly broadcast over coast-to-coast NBC network, calling attention to the contest advertisement in newspapers, the week's campaign is being conducted exclusively in newspapers.

The initial announcement of the contest consisted of full page advertisements in 1,713 daily newspapers. In addition, large space advertisements were used in 2,130 county seat weekly newspapers.

Three additional advertisements, one of them full page and the others approximately one-half page, are being used in practically the same list of newspapers before the close of the contest, which ends at midnight Wednesday, March 4th.

This makes the Camel cigarette contest one of the largest short-time advertising expenditures on record in this country, advertising experts say.

Cash prize amounting to $50,000 are being offered by the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company for the best answers to this question: "What significant change has recently been made in the wrapping of the Camel package containing twenty cigarettes and what are its advantages to the smoker?"

The prize contest marks the beginning of an intensive nationwide advertising campaign to acquaint the public with the advantages of the new tight-sealed moisture-proof cellophane wrapper in which the Camel package is now enclosed. Further advertising in newspapers, magazines, radio and in outdoor and window display is to be used.

OHIO TREASURER MAKES A REPORT

COLUMBUS, O.—State Treasurer Harry S. Day today announced a balance of $16,335,121 on the State's general revenue fund at the end of February. This was compared with a balance of $11,646,702 at the end of January.

February receipts were $9,583,036. Expenditures out of the general revenue fund were $4,899,617. The workmen's compensation fund totalled $49,540,952, and the teachers retirement fund, $49,726,745.

WED 6 MONTHS NOW SEPARATED

HOLLYWOOD, Calif.—Dixie Lee featured motion picture actress who originated the "Varsity Drag," admitted today that she and her husband "Bing" Crosby have separated.

"We have only been married for six months," Miss Lee declared, "but we have already found out that we are not suited for each other. Our separation is an amicable one."

Miss Lee came here from the New York stage two years ago.

AMERICAN MONETARY STOCK OF GOLD IS NEAR ITS PEAK

WASHINGTON.—At the close of 1930 the American monetary stock of gold amounted to $4,590,000,000, within $100,000,000 of the peak figure in May, 1927, the federal reserve board said today in its annual report.

This marked an increase of $319,000,000 during the year. "The latter part of 1927 had been marked by easy money conditions in the United States, and this fact, together with the restoration of the French franc and other currencies to the gold standard, had led to a heavy outward movement of gold from the United States," the board declared.

"During 1928, however, money rates advanced in this country, and early in 1929 the movement of gold became definitely inward, with the result that in the first ten months of 1929, the monetary gold stocks of the United States rose by $238,000,000.

"This movement was abruptly terminated by the break in the stock market at the end of October and the rapid decline of money rates which followed, and in the final two months of the year $190,000,000 of gold was exported. Early in 1930 gold began to flow to the United States."

Circumstances surrounding the renewed influx of gold last year differed in important respects with those which had influenced preceding movement.

With the expectation of two months in the summer, when gold was shipped to France, the movement to Europe ceased. There was a temporarily balanced situation between this country and Europe.

On the other hand, it was pointed out, gold flowed to United States from Japan, China, Brazil, Argentina and other Central and South American countries, while gold flowed to England from South America and Australia.

"In general," the board said, "the movement of gold was one from outlying countries producing raw materials, to the financial centers and bore no significant relation to the differentials in money rates. The difficulties in which the outlying countries found themselves reflected chiefly a decline in value of many of their most important commodity exports, as well as the effects of a long period of conditions in the United States unfavorable to flotation of foreign bonds."

Of the gold, amounting to $345,000,000 received by the United States from these outlying countries, $74,000,000 was shipped to France. The gold received from similar sources by England, as well as $209,000,000 of newly mined gold received during the year.

"I have not asked for any report in this case," Governor Roosevelt said. Despite Governor Roosevelt's insistence that he has not taken a hand in the Gordon case, reports persisted at the capitol that the chief executive might "do something" within the next 48 hours.

The trunk of a large tree which stands near Dresden, Tenn., is said to contain hollow space large enough to house two automobiles. In his effort to get away from Chicago policemen, "Win" Jones, negro, ran so fast that the soles of his shoes, which were subjected to terrific strain, became separated from the upper and left him in a soleless condition when he ran into the arms of an officer.

Carnera Takes Ref's Decision

MIAMI, Fla., Mar. 6.—The opinion of shrewd observers today was that Referee Elmer McClelland of Detroit knew something when he raised the hand of Primo Carnera and then speedily ducked after the Italian giant ten-round scuffle here last night with Jimmy Maloney of Boston.

In the "battle of the bent rib" there were no cheers among the crowd of more than 15,000 fans at Madison Square Garden stadium for the Italian's victory but the cheers for the Boston boy rose in a crescendo when some admirer sent a sheaf of roses through the ropes for the loser.

Opinion on the fight was divided somewhat among the critics but a bulk of the experts disagreed with the referee.

The International News Service score gave five rounds to Maloney, three to Carnera and two even.

Maloney carried the fight to the Italian from the start, landing repeatedly with a long left to the chin and lefts and rights inside. In only one round did the big man from Italy have Maloney in any trouble of consequence and that was in the ninth. A left to the chin sent the Bostonian to the ropes. Carnera outscored Maloney decisively in the ninth round but with the exception of that stanza Maloney was entirely the aggressor and general outpunched Carnera two to one.

The Italian monster appeared in the ring with his right side, where he recently broke or at least cracked a rib, heavily taped. However, throughout the fight he showed none of the ill effects of which his manager, Leon See, sang in long but not so low key a minor lament for three weeks.

Some of the critics who thought Maloney should have been given the decision pointed out today that Carnera was undoubtedly a bigger box office attraction against the winner of the Schmeling-Stribling fight in June but they insisted Maloney made the better fight.

No official figures on the gate were given out. It was estimated the crowd may have reached 20,000 and in that event Manager Frank Bruen would sustain a relatively small loss.

"GRUNT" MEN MAKE MONEY

Leaders Earn Fortunes Report Shows; Sonnenberg Made $700,000 in 1930.

BY LES CONKLIN.
NEW YORK, March 6.—How much money does a wrestler make a year?

In view of the wrestling hysteria that has gripped New York and other cities in the past three months, the writer put this question to leading mat promoters and wrestlers today. The gist of their replies was as follows:

Dynamite Gus Sonnenberg, the Dartmouth alumnus who revolutionized the sport with his flying acrobatics, is the leading money-maker of the modern crop of rappers. He earned $700,000 in 1929 and 1930. "Gus the Goat," who lost his title to Ed (Don) George last December, has just started an attempted comeback and will tackle Pat McGill, of Omaha, here next Wednesday.

George already has salted away his tidy sum of $100,000 since defeating Sonnenberg. He figures to earn at least $300,000 this year.

Jim Londos, rival claimant to the title, has collected $60,000 since the first of the year, and expects to increase this total to between $250,000 and $300,000 by text Christmas. He has averaged at least $75,000 annually for the past 10 years, according to Promoter Jack Curley.

Jim McMillen, beaten twice by Londos, thinks he will gross $40,000 in 1931, or double his 1930 earnings.

R. R. TO MOVE FROM BUCYRUS

COLUMBUS, O.—Our plans are to transfer the repair and other shops of Bucyrus which serve the T. & O. Co., lines.

This was the statement today of L. S. Emery, general manager of the N. Y. C. lines in Ohio today when informed that a suit had been filed in Bucyrus to enjoin the N. Y. C. from closing its locomotive repair shops there and transferring the work to Collinwood.

Indicating that his company planned to carry out its program with regard to the Bucyrus situation, Emery said: "We have no reason to alter those plans."

Pressed for a statement as to what action would be taken in view of the suit filed in Bucyrus, Emery intimated that the litigation would be fought.

"Our attorneys have been over the matter. Other than that I can make NO statement," Emery said.

FIRST CAR AT RACING FIELD

Bowes Seal Fast Special Entered By Lewis Schneider At Indianapolis.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind.—The first racing car has arrived at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, ready for the 500-mile International run here next May.

It is the earliest date in many a year that a completed car has arrived at the track so far in advance of race day and is an indication of the unusual preparations being made by the racing world to compete in the historic classic this year.

The car a Bowes Seal Fast Special is entered by Louis Schneider, of Indianapolis, who was third to Billy Arnold, winner and William "Shorty" Canton in last year's classic.

"Well, I was third last year," laughed Schneider in explanation of his early arrival at the track, "so I figured that if I could get to the track early enough and get a head start on the boys maybe I'd be second this year. If I can place second this year, I'll just remain at the track so that I can win the race next year."

Schneider, born within the shadows of the grandstands at the Indianapolis speed plant, knows every brick in the two and one half mile circuit and has probably driven more miles in practice on the course than any of the present generation of speeders.

The father of a son, born a few months ago, Schneider has a new incentive to grab speed laurels this year. He has an enviable reputation on the Indianapolis course. Schooled in the dust of dirt Schneider came to the Indianapolis track a few years ago with a fund of experience which has stood him in good stead.

Old timers recall the first time Schneider drove the Indianapolis course. He was still turning the dirt tracks of the land as an apprenticeship for his first ride at Indianapolis. He was an "outlaw"—not a member of the AAA, the governing body of the big league speed sport—and forbidden to ride on its sacred bricks.

But his desire for a whirl over the Indianapolis bricks led him to conjure his car into the track one afternoon shortly before a 500-mile race.

Lap after lap this unknown whittled around the oval. Officials, drivers, speedway management could not decide who was in the car. They signaled the driver to pull in to the pits. But he merely laughed and kept on riding. Finally they sent a squadron of cars onto the track. In this manner he was pocketed into a standstill.

"I just wanted to get some experience on this track," said Schneider, "and I knew if I asked my request would be denied. So I did what I did."

Everybody laughed at the ambitious youth who was to return in a few years to thrill not merely a few railbirds—as he did on his first ride at Indianapolis—but more than 150,000 people, as he did in placing third in last year's contest.

REYNOLDS SPENDS MILLION DOLLARS

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C., Mar. 6.—One million dollars are being expended by the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company in the brief space of seven days to introduce, through a $50,000 prize contest, the new moisture-proof cellophane wrapper of the Camel package.

Except for a brief announcement on the Company's regular weekly broadcast over coast-to-coast NBC network, calling attention to the contest advertisement in newspapers, the week's campaign is being conducted exclusively in newspapers.

The initial announcement of the contest consisted of full page advertisements in 1,713 daily newspapers. In addition, large space advertisements were used in 2,130 county seat weekly newspapers.

Three additional advertisements, one of them full page and the others approximately one-half page, are being used in practically the same list of newspapers before the close of the contest, which ends at midnight Wednesday, March 4th.

This makes the Camel cigarette contest one of the largest short-time advertising expenditures on record in this country, advertising experts say.

Cash prize amounting to $50,000 are being offered by the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company for the best answers to this question: "What significant change has recently been made in the wrapping of the Camel package containing twenty cigarettes and what are its advantages to the smoker?"

The prize contest marks the beginning of an intensive nationwide advertising campaign to acquaint the public with the advantages of the new tight-sealed moisture-proof cellophane wrapper in which the Camel package is now enclosed. Further advertising in newspapers, magazines, radio and in outdoor and window display is to be used.

OHIO TREASURER MAKES A REPORT

COLUMBUS, O.—State Treasurer Harry S. Day today announced a balance of $16,335,121 on the state's general revenue fund at the end of February. This was compared with a balance of $11,646,702 at the end of January.

February receipts were $9,588,036. Expenditures out of the general revenue fund were $4,899,617. The workmen's compensation fund totalled $49,540,952, and the teachers retirement fund, $49,726,745.

WED 6 MONTHS NOW SEPARATED

HOLLYWOOD, Calif.—Dixie Lee featured motion picture actress who originated the "Varsity Drag," admitted today that she and her husband "Bing" Crosby have separated.

"We have only been married for six months," Miss Lee declared, "but we have already found out that we are not suited for each other. Our separation is an amicable one."

Miss Lee came here from the New York stage two years ago.

AMERICAN MONETARY STOCK OF GOLD IS NEAR ITS PEAK

WASHINGTON—At the close of 1930 the American monetary stock of gold amounted to $4,590,000,000, within $100,000,000 of the peak figure in May, 1927, the federal reserve board said today in its annual report.

This marked an increase of $319,000,000 during the year.

The latter part of 1927 had been marked by easy money conditions in the United States, and this fact, together with the restoration of the French franc and other currencies to the gold standard, had led to a heavy outward movement of gold, continued thru the first half of 1928, the board declared.

"During 1928, however, money rates advanced in this country, and early in 1929 the movement of gold became definitely inward, with the result that in the first ten months of 1929, the monetary gold stocks of the United States rose by $238,000,000.

"This movement was abruptly terminated by the break in the stock market at the end of October and the rapid decline of money rates which followed, and in the final two months of the year 1929, 900,000 of gold was exported. Early in 1930 gold began to flow to the United States."

Circumstances surrounding the renewed influx of gold last year differed in important respects with those which had influenced preceding movement.

With the expectation of two months in the summer, when gold was shipped to France, the movement to Europe ceased. There was a temporarily balanced situation between this country and Europe.

On the other hand, it was pointed out, gold flowed to United States from Japan, China, Brazil, Argentina and other Central and South American countries, while gold flowed to England from South America and Australia.

"In general," the board said, "the movement of gold was one from outlying countries producing raw materials, to the financial centers and bore no significant relation to the differentials in money rates. The difficulties in which the outlying countries found themselves reflected chiefly a decline in value of many of their most important commodity exports, as well as the effects of a long period of conditions in the United States unfavorable to flotation of foreign bonds."

Of the gold, amounting to $345,000,000 received by the United States from these outlying countries, $74,000,000 was shipped to France. The gold received from similar sources by England, as well as $209,000,000 of newly mined gold received during the year from Rhodesia and South Africa, was largely exported to France. The board made no recommendations relative to banking legislation. For the banks of the country, the 15 months ending in December was one of readjustment and liquidation, the report said.

MORE JUGGLING IN GERRYMANDER

COLUMBUS, O., March 6.—Six counties found themselves in unfamiliar political territory today as the result of the latest move in the experimental shuffle of congressional districts by a state Senate gerrymandering committee.

Seneca-co was shuffled out of the 13th district and Lorain-co was shuffled in during the tentative re-arranging efforts of the committee.

Republican Richland and Ashland-cos were tossed into a Democratic neighborhood that included Wayne, Holmes and Coshocton-cos, creating a 16th district with Democratic leanings.

Union was yanked from the seventh and Delaware was prised from the 17th, then thrown together with Seneca into the eighth that will also be constituted of Marion, Crawford, Hardin, Wyandot, Morrow and Hancock.

MARSHALL'S PLAN GOES FOR NAUGHT

COLUMBUS, O., March 6.—Four negative votes, added to three cast yesterday, today had succeeded in strangling beyond hope of recovery the Marshall state Senate resolution memorializing Congress to call a constitutional convention to alter the 18th amendment.

Addition of the disapproving votes of Senators William Dunlap (D) of Bowling Green, Charles J. Anderson (R) of Shelby, John P. Bower (D) of Rushsylvania and Floor Leader Earl R. Lewis (R) of St. Clairsville, killed the resolution, which yesterday only seemed snowed under other measures, by a 7-4 total.

VIOLIN ARTIST AT COLUMBUS

One of the greatest appearances of the entire Columbus season is the great violin artist, Louis Persinger, world renowned as the teacher of Ruggiero Ricci and Yehudi Menuhin, the boy violin prodigies, who has been engaged to play in recital at Memorial Hall, Wednesday evening, March 18, as fifth attraction of the Barbizon Concert Series.

Mr. Persinger is an American artist educated in the finest traditions of the violinistic art. After his European debut, foreign critics declared him to be the finest violinist since Sarasate.

He has played with all the greatest orchestras at home and abroad. After the death of the great violin master, Leopold Auer, Persinger was appointed to his position as master teacher of Juillard Institute, New York City.

The concert admission has been set at popular prices so as to assure a great audience for Mr. Persinger's first Columbus appearance. Reserved seats at $1.00, $1.50, 50c for students can be obtained from Heaton's Music Store.

STATE WITNESS CAN'T BE FOUND

CHICAGO, Mar. 6.—Hints of gangster violence were heard today in the wake of the mysterious disappearance of four important state witnesses in the murder trial of "Three Finger Jack" White, high ranking public enemy gangster and reputed ally of Alphonse Capone. Disappearance of the witnesses from their hiding place in rival McHenry-co brought White's trial for the murder of Policeman Edward Pflaum to a sudden and unexpected halt until they are located.

STATE'S RULE

tional committee here produced some strange results.

For one thing, it developed that if the southern dries decide to rally behind any candidate at all that candidate probably will be Senator Joe T. Robinson of Arkansas, who was Al Smith's running mate in 1928.

ROBINSON SURPRISED

Senator Robinson, who loyally supported Smith three years ago - - even to his attitude against prohibition - - proved the surprise of the meeting. Not only did he vigorously object to prohibition being injected into the session, but he exceeded even such radical dries as Senator Morrison of North Carolina, in his assault on the Smith-Raskob control of the party machinery, and his championship of the dry side.

There was a Braynesque touch to his dramatic assertion:

"You shall not pin the emblem of the Democratic party the skull and cross bones of an outlawed trade!"

Hitherto Robinson has been regarded as rather a neutral in the fierce prohibition conflict that has raged in the party. But from today on he probably will be regarded as the leader of the southern dry wing of the party.

LUTHERANS

ber of the brotherhood appeared on the screen, he naturally was at the mercy of Bob's casual remarks. All in all this half-hour of entertainment was exceptionally fine and is only too little appreciated because of the fact that we are all so familiar with the many big features of the "Better and Bigger Show."

The next act was an exemplification of the difficulties encountered in the modern radio broadcasting studio.

Director Griffith was in charge of the broadcast and first introduced the speaker whom he explained as having started out in life with a shoe sole and a carton of tacks and having gone west and entered the political field; was elected Governor of the "Gold State"; and amassed an independent fortune and because of pressing business matters could not be present at the meeting, hence would be heard from his villa on the Californian coast. Governor Chas. L. Mack was then introduced and most interestingly discussed the proposed "Four Year Term for State Officials."

Even mature men enjoy the bed time stories, so Manager Griffith took this opportunity to broadcast such a number and pleased all of his listeners. Almost every member of the cast took his part in aiding Mr. Griffith in the broadcast of this number "Billy and Sally."

The balance of time allotted was occupied with a minstrel show, Mr. Griffith acting as interlocutor, and Chas. L. Mack and C. G. Chalfin as end men. As an opener, the entire chorus sang "My Old Kentucky Home," following this with "Old Black Joe" and "Dixie Land."

The jokes passed by the end men and the interlocutor were new and full of life. In the absence of E. C. Ebert, Chas. L. Mack substituted and sang well his solo part.

George Himrod was next introduced and very impressively sang

"My Wild Irish Rose," responding to a generous encore by singing "Where the River Shannon Flows." End man Chalfin brought down the house with his rendition of "Sweet Jennie Lee" following this by singing "My Baby Just Cares for Me." The program was a fittingly closed by the entire chorus singing "Good-night Judges."

The fourth number of the contest will be given on Thursday evening, March 19 and will be directed by E. E. Wolf and J. D. Hummel.

Judges of the contest are: S. T. Rife, history instructor of the City schools; J. W. Fetherlin, dramatic instructor City high schools; E. L. Daley, supervisor of grades of City schools; Ferd Pickens, clerk of courts and George W. McDowell, superintendent of Jackson-twp centralized schools.
